Flood Damage Repair From Allied Restoration Company

Serving San Francisco, San Diego and Seattle

Floods can result from a number of causes: violent weather, major plumbing failures, roof leaks and more. Water deposits can build up quickly, compromising a building's foundation and the health of its inhabitants. Even after removing the water, high humidity, moisture and mold can still cause problems.

Allied Restoration: Your Violent Weather Response Team

A violent storm can easily create problems for a home or place of business. Torrential rain, hail storms, lightning strikes and strong winds can damage roofing materials and other structural areas of a building. These can rapidly lead to a dangerous flood and severe property damage.

Water from outside often has various bacteria and other toxins that pose a serious health risk. Contacting a professional flood cleanup service can minimize exposure and the chance of contamination.

Flooding From Plumbing Failures

Broken pipes, busted hot water heaters, faulty sinks, tubs and toilets can all cause a serious flood in the home. There's nothing worse than coming home to find standing water in your basement, kitchen or bathrooms. Allied Restoration Company can act fast to stop the flow of water into your home and provide flood water recovery protocols to remove the water and dry the area.

Plumbing failures are more subtle causes of severe floods. If you suspect that there may be a leak in the house, you could already have significant water damage—especially behind walls where it's not apparent.

Turning Back the Clock on Flood Damage

At Allied Restoration Company, our passion is restoring your property to its original beauty. Our response team is equipped and experienced to handle the most disastrous of floods. Whether the water comes from storms, plumbing failures or roof leaks, we'll be there to provide a comprehensive solution. Our team can prevent future damage and eliminate the risk of dry rot, waterlogging and mold growth.
